WHITEHEAD, WAGNER TO RCA VICTOR

RCA Victor announces the appointment of Dr. James Rennie Whitehead, of McGill University, as director of the new research laboratory in Montreal.

Dr. Whitehead's work will be in the field of pure physics and electronics research, and will not necessarily be connected with company projects or developments.

Associated

Associated with Dr. Whitehead will be Dr. Sidney Wagner also of McGill University and a staff of Canadian physicists. The appointment of Dr. Whitehead and Dr. Wagner are effective Oct. 1 and the laboratories will be opened by the end of the year.

Dr. Whitehead, who leaves his post as Associate Professor of Physics at McGill University is recognized as one of the world's leading authorities on radar and other electronic developments. He is a fellow of the Institute of Physics and a senior member of the Institute of Radio Engineers and has a long and distinguished record in the field of electronics and research.

From 1939 to 1951, Dr. Whitehead was associated with the British Government Telecommunications research establishment engaged in important war and defense projects. Beginning with work on the Mark I prototype aircraft system for radar identification, he put in 1,500 hours of actual flight testing of radar systems. He then designed Mark III airborne equipment and was named head of the research group and airborne systems.

War Cabinet

In June, 1944, Dr. Whitehead became a member of the War Cabinet Commission to the joint chiefs of staff in Washington, D.C. He then returned to Britain to head a research division working on millimeter-wave radar and meteorological pulsed light radar.

Dr. Whitehead came to Canada in 1951 and joined the Physics Department at McGill University as Associate Professor. There he served as special electronics consultant on the McGill Fence. Dr.

Whitehead is the author of many technical articles and a book on Super-regenerative receivers.

Most Beloved

Dr. Wagner, one of the most beloved of the McGill Physics professors, has been an inspiration to physics students for the past ten years. Due to his efforts and understanding, as well as his brilliant teaching, many students have gone on to pursue successful careers in physics. During the war he was awarded a Lott Prize for inventing a waterproof antenna for submarine beacons. Dr. Wagner was appointed Associate Professor of Physics at McGill in 1954. From 1950 until this year he held a research appointment in the Eaton Electronics Laboratory, where he did research on electronic beams and travelling wave tubes.

Dr. Wagner is a member of the Canadian Association of Physicists and an associate member of the Institute of Radio Engineers. Both of these men will be impossible to replace at McGill.

ENGINEERS CHALLENGE UNIVERSITY

The Engineering Faculty, humbly recognizing the fact that it is the most superior faculty of the University has challenged the rest of the University to a cheering contest at the McGill-Western football game this Saturday.

The Engineers after much deliberation have generously decided to take over only a portion of the seats allotted to the University Students in Section U, at this game. This section will be well fortified, over poweringly with engineering spirit and will outspirit the whole stadium besides outcheering the rest of the University.

We intend to prove to the "Weak-livered" Artsmen as well as the rest of the University that we once again will be victorious.

INDIANS PREPARED FOR GAME AGAINST VERDUN

Shorty Fairhead has his McGill Indians hepped, prepped and pepped for the invasion of the Verdun Shamcats tonight at eight o'clock at McGill Stadium.

The Indian coach, his team cut to thirty-five players, revealed that he would use the much discussed, much criticized two platoon system.

Powerful Line

The offensive team, playing out of a regular T with a split line, will be quartered by strong armed Doug McGregor. Working with McGregor in the backfield will be halves Derrek Marpole and Stu Colt, fullback Graham Day and flying wing Bob Rogers. The line strength will be supplied by Ed Gregorski, centre, Sam Craig and Bob Seargeant, guards and Geoff Seagram and Mike Byrne, tackles. Tom Gallagher will throw the blocks on right end while the left end post is still undecided.

Strong Defense

The defensive team will be sparked by such stalwarts as Bob Reid, Ed Smith, Norm Buka and Ken Bennett. Coach Fairhead promises that, although the offense is not as yet polished his defense will be as powerful as a scared skunk's stench.

Fighting Mad

In the Verdun camp, coach Ewett Jones has his forces in a touchdown - mad, blood - thirsty mood. Full of fire after defeating the South Shore Combines in their first game of the season, the Shamcats are now after Indian blood. They will be guided in their search for the red stuff by quarterback Mike Corcoran, halfback Dick Zimmickes and a fighting line with an average weight of 200 pounds.

Back on the McGill front, the Sport's Department announced they have added more games to the Intermediate's schedule. On Saturday, Oct. 15, they journey to Stanstead to meet Bishop's University and on Saturday, Oct. 22, they will be entertained by Ottawa University at Ottawa.

All in all they have a total of seven games, three at home and four on the road. With a little luck and a lot of hustle they should put up a good showing and may possibly become the holders of an imaginary trophy so kindly donated by the University.

PRINCESS ROYAL TO TOUR CAMPUS

Her Royal Highness the Princess Royal will enter the campus by Roddick Gates at 1:00 p.m. Her Royal Highness will then proceed slowly to the Arts Biological building and then to Redpath Hall by means of Carleton and McTavish Streets. A luncheon will be served. She will then inspect the Guards in front of the Arts Building at 3:20 p.m. From there Her Highness will proceed to the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium for the Convocation ceremonies. S. E. C. president Avrum Cohen and Women's Union president, Joan Caplan, will be presented to Her Highness on behalf of the students.

Pep Rally, Football, Dancing, Head Western Week-End

The opening event of the Western-McGill week-end will be the Pep Rally, scheduled for Friday Night on the Upper Field.

The Evening's highlights will include an introduction of the players by Coach Larry Sullivan, an effigy burning, and a square dance to the music of Mike Dodman.

Following the game, which is scheduled for 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, will be a (victory) Tea Dance at the Union at 4:30 p.m. This is the second year that these dances are being run and they have proven highly successful in the past. The Western Dance will take place in the Currie Gym, and is scheduled to begin at 9:00 p.m. with Russ Meredith supplying the music.

THE STUDENT AND THE SERVICE

About this time of year one notices that the Armed Services are conducting their recruiting campaigns. Those on campus who have carefully cultivated a fashionably cynical point of view scoff at the efforts of the "little tin soldiers". It is smart these days to have no use for the Military. Is it wise?

It is quite true that this country is not engaged at the present time in armed combat with anyone. However, our government sees fit to spend a good deal of the tax-payer's money to establish and maintain efficient regular and reserve forces. Further the Nation is committed to certain military obligations through its participation in NATO. Men in the uniform of their country are doing a job that, for better or for worse, must be done. It is no longer possible to deny the need for a Navy, an Army, and an Air Force. It is impossible to close ones eyes to their existence. There is a job to be done and it might just as well be done properly.

This is why the Services come to you. You as eventual university graduates are considered as officer material in any one of the three services. You can supply leadership of the caliber that the Armed Forces now require. This implies a great deal of responsibility. No one is going to give you two summers of good training and good pay without being quite certain that you as an individual and as an officer are a worthwhile investment. Consequently the competition is stiff, some fall by the wayside, those who are eventually successful and do receive a commission in one or other of the three services can look back with a feeling of satisfaction on a hard road and a job well done.

These may be unfashionable clichés; it may be unfashionable to suggest that those who wear the Queen's cloth are proud of it. It is not always best to follow the fashion. We suggest that an inquiry into one or all of these officer training schemes might be profitable. To be cynical, you could be serving yourself as well as your country.

Students Grieve

WHAT PRICE VICTORY

(The following was a letter sent to the Queen's Journal)

Editor, Journal:

The team in the gold sweaters won the game in Richardson Stadium Saturday afternoon, yet the characteristic enthusiasm of Queen's students was noticeably diminished. This was due, in part, to the fact that it was a dull game. However the realization that the team is no longer entirely composed of our own boys was a major factor.

I do not intend to criticize Braccia personally, nor do I profess to speak for the majority of students. I do feel, though that a significant minority object either consciously or unconsciously to the blatant importation of an experienced quarterback so that our football team may win the coveted intercollegiate championship. It is an insult to our personal pride and integrity to imply that our team hasn't got what it takes, and that football talent must be brought in if we are to win.

Queen's has been noted for the way its students back up their team, win or lose. Now a new attitude is appearing, one of cynicism and partial indifference. After the final whistle Saturday afternoon a good proportion of the crowd wandered quietly away from the stadium without the usual zest and enthusiasm which follows a Queen's victory.

The essence of Queen's spirit in the past has been one of David and Goliath — our small university against the larger schools. We have always managed to make more noise with our smaller numbers than the larger colleges. The relative lack of interest in football common among our opponents may well infect Queen's if our team is to be stacked with outsiders for the sole purpose of winning games.

As Others See It

STATUE MUTILATED

Brussels — The famous statue of a small boy performing a natural function which has adorned Brussels since the 17th century has been drastically mutilated.

Led by students, the population of Brussels is up in arms and demanding that the culprits be apprehended.

The statue has been the focal point of student and citizen affairs for over 300 years. On special festivals, beer and wine spurted from the little boy's spout and the whole town went on carnival for the occasion.

Now the world-famous spout has been removed, and Brussels is weighed down with grief.

Suspicion falls on a delegation of students from an eastern American campus who passed through Brussels the night the spout vanished. Said one Brussels student, "it would be just like american students to carry back the most important point of the statue, why couldn't they have taken something useless like the head?"

Letters to the Editor

Sir,

The Women's Union feels that the editorial which appeared in the Daily of Tuesday, October 4, 1955, entitled "Good Advice For Nice Girls", does not help to promote a close relationship between the Union and the Women's Union. Our organization is only too willing to encourage Women Students to frequent the Student's Union and we have offered our service in helping to plan, with The President of the Student's Union, activities attractive to both men and women on campus.

We feel that the "Clue Book" has been a success in so far as it accomplished what was intended;

Sir:

I devoutly wish it were so, but Forge, McGill's literary magazine, will not appear three times this year as the Handbook announces. The error here is both small and innocent.

It will be remembered that Forge came out twice last year: mid-December and early March. This was double the number of issues that had appeared in a single year for a considerable time. Forge did, once, have a golden age. At one point it came out four times a year and enjoyed a circulation in the neighbourhood of one and a half thousand. Subsequently, it slipped. And for a long time there has been no more than a single, struggling issue published each year. It was last year's Editors who decided to try to regain some of this lost ground.

I think that the experiment was successful. But I definitely do not think that McGill's literary "awareness" is yet strong enough or sufficiently widespread to justify the publication of three issues.

There will, then, as last year, be an issue shortly before Christmas and another in early spring. And again, as last year and indeed as in every year, we express as sincerely and emphatically as that is, to inform the Freshettes of those details of interest to women not covered in the McGill Handbook or any other such publication.

We do not imply that Freshettes are any different from any other people who came to McGill to learn. The prime purpose of the clue book, to give information to new students so that they will feel more at home, was not to differentiate them from the upper classmen. As to the use of the Library, of course the Freshettes are "not at all 'clue-less'". Letters were sent out some time ago (prior to your editorial) to each Freshette, correcting this error and pointing out that Freshman books are frequently on reserve, in which case they can not be taken from Redpath.

In the future we hope you will refrain from trying to agitate those who are willing to further the Student Centre and to co-operate with its workings.

Joan Caplan,
President of the Women's Union.

We did not quarrel with the intentions of the clue-book, but rather with the manner in which they were handled.— Ed.

we can our desire (not to say need) for contributions. Forge is McGill's vehicle for creative writing — it is for students who write and who want to read what others write.

Not to bother, or worse, not to bother submitting something that is already written, is to throw away a chance which, quite simply, will not present itself a second time.

There have been good writers at McGill, name writers, and there can be more here now. Forge is the place for them. Contributions — prose, poetry or essays — should be marked as such and left at the Union tuckshop.

Jim Brierley, Law 2
Editor of Forge.
